

ROBERTS' TERM IS SET AT SIX YEARS AND FINE IS ADDED

Terre Haute Officials Convicted of Election Conspiracy Sentenced Today

JUDGE DENIES NEW TRIAL MOTION

Two of Men Protest Innocence in Court; Different Penalty for Each Count

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 12.—Mayor Donn M. Roberts of Terre Haute, was sentenced today in federal court to serve six years in Leavenworth prison. To this was added a fine of $2,000. Roberts was the chief defendant in the Terre Haute election corrupt conspiracy trial conducted by the government.

The sentences pronounced by Judge Anderson were: Sheriff Dennis Shea, five years and $1,000.

Ed Redman, circuit judge, five years and $1,000.

Harry Montgomery, president of the Terre Haute board of works, three years and $500.

George Ehrenhardt, member of the board of works, three years and $500.

Ed Driscoll, assistant city engineer, three years and $500.

Thomas Smith, city judge, three years and $500.

Hilton Redman, two years and $100.

William Crockett, two years and $100.

E. E. Talbot, assistant city comptroller, two years and $100.

Lewis Nunley, two years and $100.

Dr. John E. Green, two years and $100.

The following men received sentences of one year and one day and fines of $100 each:

Maurice Walsh, Bud Houghton, Arthur Gullis, Joe O'Mara, George Soren, John Masselink, Alexander Steele and Joe Strouse.

Chief of Police Ed Holler, who was the first of the eighty-nine men who pleaded guilty, to be sentenced, received a sentence of one year and one day and a fine of $1.

The following men received sentences of six months in the Marion county jail and fines of $10 each:

George Evans (colored), Frankie Hines, Jack Hines, Buster Clark, Sylvester Jordan, Jack Stingley, Kid Kiser, George Woodall, George (Three Shell) Rouse, Clarence Starks (colored), Fred Morrison and William O'Donnell.

Joe Jeffers, notorious gunman, received a sentence of six months in the county jail.

Other confessed conspirators and convicted men received sentences of varying degree, the majority of them in the county jail.

Hold Four Witnesses

Judge Anderson announced that at the request of District Attorney Bailey, he would not at once put into effect the sentences of John Nugent, John Hines, John Burns and Frankie Hines, but would hold them as witnesses in the trial of Roy Shattuck and five others May 17. These men are charged with conspiring to commit election frauds to elect Shattuck to congress from the Fifth Indiana district on the republican ticket.

When Maurice Walsh arose and said that his conscience was clear, Judge Anderson asked how it happened that the $1,500 contribution of Crawford Fairbanks did not appear on the books kept by Walsh. He added that Walsh's statement "was as false as can be," and briefly reviewed the evidence against Walsh.

FRENCH ARMY RECOVERS FROM CASE OF NERVES WITH WHICH WAR BEGAN

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS (United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, April 12.—The most important—probably the most decisive campaign of the great war—has begun with the French army in "the pink of condition," stronger and more effective by far than at the beginning last summer.

I have just returned from the trenches. Spring has come to the war zone. Anemones and dandelions carpet the green spaces between the earth zone. And amidst the holes made by German shells. The preliminary works and the great death struggle in northern France are being fought amidst a fairland of wild flowers.

By official invitation I made a trip to the French front, going northward as far as the British zone of operations. Before leaving the French headquarters, I was told I might see anything I wished.

"The French army has nothing to conceal from neutral eyes," said an officer at headquarters.

With this permission to roam almost at will along the battle front, I was able to remain for a long time in the front trenches of the French army both day and night. Often at night I was within thirty feet of the Germans. It was the first time a foreign correspondent had been given such freedom of action.

I saw the French army as it actually is and of one thing I am certain—the world's opinion of Frenchmen is due for a revolutionary change. For there is a tremendous difference between the temperamental, red-tressed soldiers—each man seemingly a bundle of nerves—which the world saw march away last August, and the horizon-blue uniformed, grimly determined.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES MARK THE DEDICATION OF ST. WENCESLAUS' CHURCH

SUNDAY'S OVERFLOW CROWD AT ST. WENCESLAUS. Thousands of people assembled at the new Bohemian church to hear Bishop Schwabach's dedicatory address and consecration. Hundreds were unable to get into the building. The bishop is seen in the doorway.

Dedication of St. Wenceslaus Bohemian Catholic church, recently completed, was made yesterday. Impressive services, starting at 7 o'clock, at which officiated Rt. Rev. James Schwabach, bishop of the diocese of La Crosse, and Rt. Rev. Joseph Koudelka, bishop of the diocese of Superior, assisted by the priests of this district, drew thousands to the church.

About one thousand people attended pontifical high mass at 10 o'clock, at which Bishop Koudelka officiated. The assisting clergy were Rev. Gerhard Sluyter, presbyter assistant; Rev. V. Duda, Winona, and Rev. Joseph Riestler, La Crosse, honorary deacons; Rev. K. G. Beyer, La Crosse, deacon of the mass; Rev. W. Multerer, La Crosse, secretary to Bishop Schwabach, sub-deacon of the mass; Rev. Edmund A. Beyer, La Crosse, master of ceremony. Other priests present at the services were Rev. V. Z. Kozelka, Stangville, Wis.; Rev. John Tausl, Cudahy; Rev. F. X. Lepsa, De Soto; Rev. J. Theis, Prairie du Chien, and Rev. Durward, Rev. John Kloecker and Rev. Lucien Kufel of La Crosse.

Procession of Societies. Marching at 10 o'clock from the St. Mary's school, several Bohemian societies, besides the Knights of St. Wenceslaus of the Winona congregation, formed a procession to the church, the Cavalcade being headed by the holy sacrament. Local societies participating included the Knights of St. George, St. Wenceslaus' society, St. Francis Xavier society, St. Joseph society, the Catholics of Wisconsin and the Knights of Columbus. Following the procession, attending members of the congregation and visitors were seated.

Deep praise for the work of the Bohemians of the city in building the magnificent edifice was the gist in the sermon of Bishop Koudelka after the conclusion of the mass. The work, he said, showed the congregation to be one of the strongest in the city. He expressed great satisfaction with the building, as at a visit here two years ago when the old church was still standing he himself suggested that a new church be built. He little thought at that time, he said, that in two years he would be called upon to dedicate the new church.

Fr. Condon is Speaker. Dr. Robert Condon, speaking after Bishop Koudelka, took his text from Genesis, "This is no other than the house of God and the gate of heaven." He began his sermon by

CRACKSMEN BLOW ONALASKA SAFE WITH HEAVY BLAST

Charge Is Strong Enough to Wreck a National Bank; Money Scattered for Many Feet

EXPLOSION SHAKES WHOLE TOWN

Strong Box Dragged Out of Saloon and Imbedded in Haystack, Then Demolished

Amateur cracksmen who invaded the city of Onalaska early Sunday morning put enough blasting powder into the safe of A. Delameter, a saloon keeper, before they set it off, to blow up a national bank. They blew the safe to smithereens and got away with about $70 in silver, the rest of the contents of the strong box being scattered for fifty yards in the vicinity.

The robbery was committed at 3 a. m. when everyone in the little town was asleep. The cracksmen entered the saloon through a rear entrance and dragged the safe, which was an ordinary "three foot" fireproof affair, into the lot at the rear of the saloon, where they buried it in a haystack. Then they drilled a hole the size of an ordinary lead pencil through the door and put as much blasting powder into it as they could chuck through the opening. Long blasting fuses were then attached, similar to those used in the stone quarries.

When the charge went off almost every building in Onalaska was shaken. The door of the safe was blown twenty feet. Almost the entire population of the town was awakened, but the robbers were gone before anyone made their appearance.

Sunday, interested citizens raked the lot and recovered $20 in quarters, half dollars and dollars in the vicinity of the explosion. Several dollars more were found today.

Detectives McGrath and Fitzsimmons of the La Crosse police force and Sheriff George J. Ritter made an investigation Sunday but could find no clues, other than that the bungling of the cracksmen led them to believe that the job was not the work of professional yeggmen. They were not notified of the robbery until late Sunday morning. Samples of the fuse used were brought to police headquarters.

That the job was done by men well acquainted with the place of business and the location of the safe is thought by the owner. His theory is substantiated by the manner in which the building was entered.

MILWAUKEE, April 12—

Miss Anna Kramer, 41, matron at the county home for dependent children, who was charged by nurses in the investigation of that institution with having treated the inmates with cruelty, hanged herself at the home of her widowed mother this afternoon. She tied a clothes line around her neck and jumped off a chair.

WIDOW OF ONE OF CITY'S PIONEERS CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Laura A. Place Colman Dies Saturday Afternoon After 60 Years Spent in La Crosse

MRS. COLMAN INVALID FOR YEARS

Fatal Attack Follows Bad Fall Seven Months Ago in Which Hip Was Fractured

Mrs. Laura A. Place Colman, widow of Charles L. Colman, pioneer lumberman of La Crosse, and resident of this city for 60 years, died at her home, 303 South Eleventh street, at 4:45 Saturday afternoon, at the age of 86 years.

Mrs. Colman had been an invalid for years. The illness which caused her death followed a bad fall sustained seven months ago, in which her hip was fractured. Throughout her long years of suffering Mrs. Colman displayed remarkable fortitude and patience, and, aided by a strong vitality, she was able to overcome many attacks of sickness and enjoy the warm friendship and love of relatives and a wide circle of acquaintances, for many years.

For several weeks she had been steadily failing, and for some time past relatives and intimate friends had realized that the end was near.

Native of New York

Laura A. Place was born at Davenport, Delaware county, New York, December 20, 1828. In 1846 she removed with her parents to Fond du Lac, Wis., where, January 3, 1850, she married Charles L. Colman.

In 1854 Mr. Colman came to La Crosse and the following year brought his family. The family have resided here continuously since that time.

Of charitable, kindly and sweet disposition, Mrs. Colman, during her long years of residence in La Crosse has been renowned for her various benefactions and helpful ministrations to the poor, sick and unfortunate. She has always been a liberal contributor to various charity funds, and privately she has helped hundreds of persons.

Built Methodist Sunday School Wing. A lasting monument to her generosity is the Sunday school and social addition to the First Methodist church, which she built and presented to the parish.

Ill health prevented Mrs. Colman participating in the social activities of the city, but she had legions of friends whose visits she enjoyed, and they in turn treasure the recollection of her kindly acts and lovable disposition.

Mrs. Colman saw La Crosse grow from a crude, undeveloped struggling river hamlet into a handsome municipality filled with beautiful residences, parks, churches and other adornments, and she entertained an abiding affection for her home city. As the city developed the fortunes of C. L. Colman, enterprising lumberman, grew apace, and it was a never ending source of pleasure to Mrs. Colman to be able to bestow with liberal hand the funds which she gave so generously to aid the unfortunate, sick and oppressed.

Three Sons Survive. Decedent is survived by three sons, Lucius C., Edward L. and Harry L. Colman, all residents of this city. Her husband died July 1, 1901.

Her only daughter, Mrs. W. L. Osborne, died June 15, 1908.

The funeral will be held at the residence, 303 South Eleventh street, Saturday afternoon at three o'clock. Friends of the family are invited.

TEUTON SQUADRON AND BRITISH ARE REPORTED IN FIGHT

Fleet of Fifteen German Warships Seen 450 Miles Off Helgoland Wednesday and Thursday

HEAVY GUNFIRE IS HEARD

Norwegians Hear Long Engagement Off Sartor Island Wednesday Evening

LONDON, April 12.—Reports that a German squadron has escaped the British blockade and has been engaged by British warships off the coast of Norway, south of Bergen, were received here today from a number of Scandinavian ports. The admiralty refused comment.

Fifteen in Squadron

Captains of Scandinavian vessels arriving at Copenhagen today, reported sighting German warships in the northern part of the North sea, at least 450 miles from Helgoland on Wednesday and Thursday. Several skippers were positive there were fifteen warships in the German fleet. Others guessed the number at twenty-five. A Norwegian steamer from Bergen, reported she met a British cruiser south of Bergen while proceeding to Copenhagen, and was warned to hug the coast for the rest of her journey.

Norwegian newspapers printed at Bergen carried rumors today of a naval battle off Sartor island, on the Norwegian coast, on Wednesday night. At about 11 o'clock, according to reports published at Bergen, there was a heavy cannonade, the blue light of gunfire on the horizon, and windows rattled on the island. Persons who congregated on the beach were convinced that a sea fight had occurred.

Dash for Atlantic. The firing was very heavy and prolonged. Rumor had it that the firing was caused by German cruisers trying to get into the Atlantic by way of the Norwegian coast in order to replace the Prinz Friedrich Eitel, the Karlsruhe and other commerce raiders. This rumor stated that they had been observed and attacked by the British.

Residents of Utsire island, thirty miles south of Bergen, reported that early Thursday morning they sighted a squadron steaming in a northwesterly direction.

Captain Sorensen of the steamer Vestros reported when he went into Christiania that he sighted a large squadron off the Norwegian coast Wednesday afternoon and observed distinctly that they carried the German colors. They were steaming northward, he said.

For the past fortnight, Scandinavian reports had carried rumors of dashes by the German fleet into the North sea and reports of heavy cannonading off the coast. In the present instance, the reports come from several different sources and they were given credence in London today.

MINNESOTA GOES ASHORE OFF JAPAN

1,500 Passengers Have a Narrow Escape When American Liner Hits Rock

TOKIO, April 12.—The American liner Minnesota, with 1,500 passengers aboard, is ashore in the inland sea, according to wireless messages received here today. The vessel was said to be in no great danger.

All passengers, including a delegation of school teachers and a number of American army officers from Manila have been transferred from the Minnesota to the blue funnel steamship Aana and have been taken to Kobe, Japan.

Two big holes were opened in the Minnesota's hull under water, cables to the Great Northern offices here today stated. The messages did not fix definitely the extent of the damage but apparently another disaster at sea was narrowly averted. The number of passengers is also indefinite, one estimate being 1,600.

PHIFER MUST PAY TOW. S. BURROUGHS BIG SUM OF MONEY

Judge Fowler Sustains Plaintiff in Construction Company Suit; Accuses Defendant of Fraud

Court Asserts Property Now Placed in Woman's Name to Avoid Paying the Creditors

Judge Fowler, who heard an action in circuit court here March 15, between H. S. Burroughs and others associated as the La Crosse Construction company and F. A. Phifer, in a decision and memorandum of facts filed at noon today in circuit court here, charged that Phifer, in his manipulations of funds belonging to the La Crosse Construction company, in which he was a partner, had shown intention to defraud creditors of the company.

The court declared that on March 14, 1914, Phifer had turned over to his wife $1,100 of the company's money with the intention to defraud H. S. Burroughs, his partner; that title to stocks in the La Crosse Steel and Construction company was purchased by Phifer with non-exempt funds of Fred Phifer and the certificates were taken out in his wife's name with intention to defraud the creditors of the company; that on July 10, 1914, Phifer had on deposit in La Crosse banks $450, which was turned over to his wife with the intention to defraud the company's creditors.

The court in conclusion ordered that Mrs. Phifer must turn over to H. S. Burroughs, as trustee for the company, the La Crosse Steel and Construction company stock, worth $1,900; also cash amounting to $1,550 with interest from March 14, 1914; that F. A. Phifer and Mary Phifer pay all costs of the action and that Mary Phifer be enjoined from disposing of certain South Dakota realty until the judgment of the court was satisfied.

The case has been long fought in the courts. Attorney J. E. Higbee represented the plaintiff in action, while Phifer was represented by Mahoney and Shubert. Judge C. E. Higbee referred the case to Judge Fowler because his son was one of the attorneys in the action.

BANK ASSERTS M'ADOO PLOTTED ITS DOWNFALL

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The Riggs National bank this afternoon filed suit for an injunction against John Skelton Williams, comptroller of the treasury, Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, and United States Treasurer Durke, charging conspiracy to wreck the bank. The suit charges that the federal officers have abused their powers through personal malice.

Collector of Customs Norman R. Hamilton immediately boarded the vessel and held an extended conference with Commander Thierfeldt.

Commander Thierfeldt, gave a brief but graphic description of his voyage to Dr. Hal McCafferty, United States quarantine officer at Old Point.

VON HINDENBURG IS NOT IMPRESSED BY KITCHENER'S NEW ARMY

BERLIN, via Wireless to Sayville, April 12.—General Von Hindenburg, hero of the Mazurian lakes battles, told a neutral correspondent that he has absolutely no fear of Lord Kitchener's new army massed along the Franco-Flanders battle line.

"Kitchener has a million soldiers, but no real army," said Von Hindenburg.

"He has just a uniformed crowd. The officers and non-coms lack the experience of German officers who have generations of military training behind them."

General Von Hindenburg praised the Russian soldiers as good fighters, but said their bravery was a consequence of blind obedience to the commands of their superiors, and not in response to individual intelligence, as in the German army. The Russians, he said, learned many lessons from the Japanese war, particularly the science of trench building, but outside the trenches, he said, they fare badly.

"Nobody need fear the Russian superior numbers," said Von Hindenburg. "It is an old story that numerical superiority does not decide battles. At Tannenberg, the Russians were three-fold as strong as the Germans, but nevertheless we annihilated them."

"We have observed many unflinching signs that the Russians are becoming exhausted. Their war material is being terribly wasted. The manner in which they fight today indicates clearly that the war cannot last long."

HUNTING HOUSES

BY DOROTHY BLACKMORE

(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Can you let me have the key to the Hanson cottage?" asked a young woman of the clerk in the village real estate office.

"I think there is one here. Do you wish to see it with a prospect of renting?" asked the clerk. "It is furnished, you know."

"Yes—I do know," replied the stranger. "I am visiting my aunt, in South Vernon, and it is possible that we might come up here for the summer if we could find a suitable cottage. Mrs. Melledge, my aunt, said she thought Vorse & Co. had the renting."

"We do, and we are having a very busy renting season for summer cottages, even though it is only April. Folks can't travel abroad so they're going to exist here," laughed the clerk. "Hard luck! But—fine for us!"

Elaine Kent did not particularly fancy the type of young man who was talking to her in such friendly fashion, but she smiled and took the key. Summer cottages, summer cottaging and everything connected with it bored her this spring. But her mother had asked her to look about while she was visiting her aunt in the summer resort.

Instead of going to her aunt's house when she left the real estate agent's office, she went straight to the cottage for which she had obtained the key. She swung it idly back and forth while she held to the long wooden tag that was attached to it. When she reached the cottage that had been pointed out to her as the one she sought she looked with favor for the first time on the prospect of summering in America. Heretofore she had gone to Brittany or Normandy with a group of her friends from the academy, and they had been wont to paint and sketch away the whole happy summer. Now the European war prevented her from going and she chafed under the restraint of remaining sedately by the side of her family for an entire season.

Elaine was fond of her family, but they did not always understand why she cared so little for conventional social life and preferred to be with a few poor, struggling art students. She was the only member of the family who cared for the artistic life and who had not been fashioned from a perfectly conventional mold.

Now, as she entered the tiny garden belonging to the cottage, she looked about and appreciated the artistic setting of the cottage.

"May Cottage," she read above the door. "And so named because of the May trees in front, I suppose," she said to herself, as she inserted the key in the lock.

A slightly musty smell met her senses as she entered and, owing to the darkening sky without, a gloomy aspect was presented.

The living room of the cottage was nicely furnished in grass shades and there was nothing to antagonize the artistic taste of the girl who stood within it.

"It smells like a tomb," she murmured; "but I'm spared the sight of the woven mottoes I had expected to see in all these cottages in this old-fashioned village on the Sound. Why—there isn't even the traditional horsehair furniture, nor the marble-top table nor—no, not even a family Bible!" she cried aloud.

Each room was as pleasant a surprise as the first, and Elaine found herself almost pleased at the prospect of living in the cottage for the summer. She stood in a dainty chamber looking out, when, suddenly, the clouds burst and the April shower that had been gathering for an hour descended upon the world outside.

"I'll be like Goldenhair who visited the bears' cot in the woods and go to sleep on this lovely bed," she said to herself, taking off her hat. "I can't go out in this and spoil my best spring suit."

It was not long until she dozed off, lulled to slumber by the pattering rain on the cottage roof.

When she awoke it was to look into the face of a young man who was studying her intently.

"Elaine! Of all things in the world! I would have as soon expected to see my grandmother slumbering here in this strange cottage as you!"

Roger Lane still stared while Elaine, only half awake, jumped to her feet and pinned on her hat.

"Why—where am I? Roger! I—" "You're in a for rent cottage in South Vernon all alone and I have been looking at the place for my married sister to spend the summer in."

Elaine looked as if she understood the situation. She was wide awake now. "A shower came up and I didn't want to spoil my suit," she explained.

"I got the key from Mr. Vorse, the real estate agent," said Roger.

"And his clerk gave me mine," added Elaine. "Isn't it too weird for words?"

She laughed now and Roger joined her as they descended the pretty stairway to the living room, into which it turned.

"Why are you house hunting?" asked Roger.

"Because I can't go with the students to France, of course," she said, saucily.

"Oh, for one more of those summers!" breathed Roger.

They both looked reminiscent for a few moments and then they both turned away as if each would prevent the other from seeing what was uppermost in his mind.

"If—if your people take this cot-

GIRLS ARE SAVED FROM A SLAVER

Two Milwaukee Maids of 15 and 18 Rescued by Police and Abductor Is Held

CHICAGO, April 12.—Two sobbing girls, one 16 the other 18, are held today, while the police are seeking to unravel a case which they declare may reveal a regular traffic in girls between Chicago and Milwaukee. Frank Gramegna, 22, is booked by the police as a white slaver.

The girls are Rose, 18, and Lillian Lass, 16, sisters, daughters of a Milwaukee expressman. The party arrived in Chicago yesterday and according to the girls' story, Gramegna attempted to "railroad" them into a disorderly house on North Clark street.

Detained with them is Alexander E. Poreda, 22, of Milwaukee, who, the girls claim, is their protector and friend. He told the police he knew of Gramegna's plans and followed the party from Chicago. He is held as a witness.

Daddy's Bedtime

Little Indian Story— Boys and the First Canoes.

Paddling Them Down the Rivers.

"THE Indians made the first canoe," said daddy, beginning the evening story. "It's an Indian craft, and its history is very interesting."

"You know, children, the Indians were the first people to inhabit this country. Red men we call them because of their copper colored skins. They were here long before the white men came, and after Columbus landed with his people from Spain and the pilgrim fathers came from England to Massachusetts there were many Indian wars which drove the red men farther west because the white men wanted their land."

"When the white men came to this country the Indians were the owners of it. It was then mostly forests, which the white men began at once to cut down so as to make fields and farms. The Indians lived in tents called wigwams and traveled on foot and in canoes."

"They used to paddle these canoes along the waterways for long distances, and the little Indian boys were taught very early in life by their fathers to swim and to paddle canoes. And they enjoyed it very much, you may be sure. But you must remember, Jack, that the little Indian boys learned to swim before they started to learn to paddle canoes. After you learn to swim perhaps I will let you paddle a canoe if you keep close to the shore."

"The Indians lived in this country for ever so long—nobody knows quite how long—and they must have almost always had the canoes. Those which were used when the white men first came to this country were made of birch bark and were very light and quite easy to paddle. They were quite different from those first used many years before that, for wise men have found out that the first canoes were very heavy and hard to paddle, for they were dug out rudely from the trunks of trees. The Indians would cut down a tree with hatchets made of stone and then scoop all the insides out of a tree and make it as smooth inside as they could, and they would build up the ends so that water would not come in there, and would make some rude paddles and use them. But I think their arms must have ached."

"The birch bark canoes of the kind we have today, just as those Indians had when the first white settlers landed, were far nicer, and the little Indian boys used to have fun paddling them down the rivers where great trees rose on either side and the cool shadows lay over the water, and they would paddle all day and not be tired, for they were very strong."

"Daddy," said Jack, "I sort of wish that I were a little Indian boy."

The action of S. S. S., the famous blood purifier, is direct from the moment it enters the stomach. Unlike food that must be acted upon by the digestive juices, S. S. S. goes at once into the blood, and in less than five minutes has traversed the entire circulation. It now rapidly spreads its medicinal action in the fine network of blood vessels and is like giving the blood a thorough bath, to overcome eczema, blood risings, boils and other eruptive conditions. It can not harm any part of the system. It does not lodge in the joints as do mercury, arsenic and other minerals frequently to be found in blood remedies. It is a natural medicine for the blood, just as essential to health if germs have gotten the upper hand as is nutritious food if after a spell of sickness the body calls for nourishment. Wherever you go you are sure to meet some one who used S. S. S. for the blood and is a willing witness to its wonderful power to overcome blood troubles. You can obtain S. S. S. in almost any drug store in the U. S. a significant fact as to its worth and its sterling reputation. Get a bottle today. It will do you good. Write to The Swift Specific Co., 104 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., if the directions with the bottle do not fully cover your case.

Robert Bacon Dies at Tomah Home at Age of Seventy-seven; Fought in Civil War

TOMAH, Wis., April 12.—(Special.)—The last debate for the Rowland cup between the Seniors and Juniors at the high school Thursday evening was decided in favor of the Juniors. This ends the contest and makes the Juniors the proud possessors of the cup.

Robert Bacon Dies
Robert Bacon, an old resident of this city and vicinity and a veteran of the civil war, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Rosa of this city Saturday. The deceased was 77 years of age. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Rosa and Mrs. Stephen Kelly of this city, and one son, Will Bacon, of Michigan. He was a stepfather of S. J. Freemore of Tomah, Mrs. Carson Dunlap of Madison, Mrs. Charles Day of New Richmond, Mrs. George Drake of Milwaukee. The funeral services will be held at Oakdale Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Freemore accompanied their son Vern to his home at Marmouth, S. D. They left Saturday for a stay of several weeks and may make the west their home.

A little daughter came to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Franz Friday, April 9.

Helen Freemore of Oakdale spent Saturday with her aunt, Mrs. O. R. Grover.

Mrs. D. H. B. Johnson is entertaining her sister-in-law, Mrs. Rickard and two little daughters of Fairchild, Wis.

Mrs. George Olmstead of Camp Douglas called on Tomah friends Friday.

The family of Alvia Taylor moved to Babcock the last of the week.

William Collinge of La Crosse visited friends in Tomah Sunday.

BEAUTIFUL NORTH IS LECTURE THEME AT BAPTIST CHURCH

A trip four thousand miles long, through "The Land of the Midnight Sun," will be the sensation of an audience at the First Baptist church tonight, when Rev. C. W. Finwall, Norwegian lecturer, will speak of his native land. Rev. Finwall is on his way to Chicago, where he will lecture to Scandinavians. Hundreds of views of Norway, Sweden and Denmark will be shown during the evening. The lecture is a veritable tour of the beautiful far north countries.

OUR FRIENDLY BUT POSITIVE POSITION

The Milwaukee Journal thus clearly epitomizes the position of the Wilson administration regarding acts of belligerent nations affecting American rights:

"The note of the state department to Great Britain is important because it lays down definitely the attitude of the United States on the methods adopted in the European war. It goes into the record as proof that this country protests against the departure from international law
and refuses to yield to the doctrine of necessity, on which, to all intents and purposes, the belligerents have fallen back as a last resort. Both parties to the conflict have departed
from the path of international law;
both sides have disregarded the rights of neutral nations; both are interfering with American commerce;
each pleads necessity, the conduct of its, self preservation.

"That the protest of the United States will change the announced policy of Great Britain is not likely. But this does not mean that it will not serve its purpose, which is to assert
the right of this country to claim specific reparation for injuries resulting from the departure of Great Britain from what she herself, as the note of the state department clearly points out, has accepted as the law of nations. That this right will be recognized there need be little doubt.
Laying down a policy that exceeds the recognized limit of international law is one thing; to refuse reparation for specific injury thereby inflicted on neutral commerce is another. As it is, the United States, in connection with the rest of the world, will continue to suffer from this war. But our protests will undoubtedly mitigate conditions to some extent. They make it certain that our shipping cannot be damaged without compensation and they lay the foundation for a reconstruction of belligerent rules more in accord with sound ideas of honor and morality.

"Germany's agreement to make reparation for the destruction of the sailing vessel William P. Frye by the warship Eitel Friedrich is a satisfactory issue of the international situation. In this case there has been no question at all of the violation of international law. Indeed, so clear was the violation and so evident the mistake of the commander of the Eitel that it might have been hoped an offer of compensation would be made without waiting for formal request. That this would have been very welcome, cannot be denied, but the fact that the demand of the state department has met with prompt acquiescence is sufficient.

"The administration is to be congratulated on its handling of this matter. It has strengthened the policy of remaining on friendly terms with belligerents in the European conflict without abandoning the rights and dignity of this country.
Every result such as this moves us a step further back from the danger of becoming involved and makes stronger the position as a neutral and friendly power which this country has maintained from the beginning."

TAKING THE
OTHER TACK

It used to be the law that theft of so small a matter as a loaf of bread was punishable by death. And from theft on up in the category of crime, the law revenged itself upon the evildoer by destroying him. It is only within recent years that the theory of dealing with offenders
against society has begun to shift
from the basis of revenge to that of correction. The modern drift is apparent in the Wisconsin law that permits a jail prisoner to go about his work with the sheriff collecting his wages and turning them over to his family; in the increasing use of the parole system, in the "honor"
camps for convict road labor outside of prison walls, and in many other innovations in handling men and women who have broken the laws.

A big stride forward is contained in a measure now before the Iowa legislature, which will probably become a law, since it carries the committee endorsement. The new Iowa proposal abolishes contract labor in the state institution. Convicts will be permitted to work for outside concerns at regular wages, paying only the cost of their maintenance in prison. The bill also provides that convicts can be employed on public work, and that portions of their wages are to be sent to their families or deposited in savings banks. Ten days off their terms will be allowed
"trusties" for every month so employed.

For decades the tendency has been toward increasing humanity in punishing criminals, a dangerous tendency if the object of penology is to instill fear through terrible examples
as a deterrent of crime. If the world is to be cowed into obeying law the logical process is to punish all criminals to the limit. But civilization rebels at that and insists on a progressive leniency toward the criminal, although clinging inconsistently to its old theory of punishment and revenge. Here, perhaps, is the obstacle which has retarded prison reform. We have been trying to apply
a new consciousness and sympathy
in terms of an outworn rule, for all practical purposes a dead letter.

We are squaring laws on the other tack, however. More and more we are formulating and accepting the theory that not revenge, but reformation, is the object of criminal law;
that it is better common sense to restore a lawbreaker to usefulness
than to kill him or lock him up in useless bondage.

Just about the time a man succeeds in developing a theory it explodes.

The City's Lights
Flashing like stars of promise,
Beacons of hope and dreams,
Lighting white lanes of glory,
Luring with golden gleams,
Signals set on the watch towers
Of radiant, flaring truth;
So beam the lights of the city
In the eager eyes of youth.

Eyes of malignant phantoms,
Eyes of the worn souls fled,
Blazing in leering triumph,
Down at the vision dead,
Phantoms that blink, exulting,
At the bitter fight we wage;
So gleam the lights of the city
In the eyes of the beaten age.

Baby's Favorite
When two women friends met at a south side home recently, one said to the other:

"I haven't seen you for a month.
Where in the world have you been keeping yourself?"

"Pretty close to home," the other
answered.

"But why?"

"On account of baby."

"Hasn't the baby been well?"

"Yes, but we can't take him away from the house."

"That's odd."

"Odder still when you know the reason."

"When he broke a nursing bottle
several weeks ago we substituted a catsup bottle for it, and now the little rascal has become attached to the catsup bottle. He won't drink out of anything else. Think how that would look in public."—Youngstown Telegram.

A Woodchuck's Chuckle

"Ah," remarked the editor, "I sup-

A Thought for the Cow
An illustration of thrift is contained in the story of a Scotchwoman who had been promised a present of a new bonnet. Before she made the purchase the benefactor
called and asked the good woman,
would you rather have a felt or a straw bonnet, Mrs. MacDuff.

"Weel," said Mrs. MacDuff, "I think I'll tak' a strae ane. 'Twill
maybe a mouthful to the coo when I'm done wi' it!"

WAS MISERABLE
COULDN'T STAND

Testifies She Was Restored
to Health by Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lackawanna, N. Y.—"After my first child was born I felt very miserable and could not stand on my feet. My sister-in-law wished me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and my nerves became firm,
appetite good, step
elastic, and I lost
that weak, tired
feeling. That was six years ago and I have had three fine
healthy children since. For female troubles I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it works like a charm. I do all my own work."—Mrs.
A. F. KREMER, 1574 Electric Avenue,
Lackawanna, N. Y.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities,
periodic pains, backache, bearing-down
feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness,
or nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should be convinced of the ability of Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health by the many genuine and truthful testimonials we are constantly publishing in the news papers.

"BREAKING THE HABIT"

In a story entitled "BREAKING
THE HABIT" Dr. Perry M. Lichtenstein, physician of the Tombs prison,
New York city, gives a graphic description of the treatment of more than three thousand cases of drug addiction and outlines the method by which he obtained a large percentage of cures. This story will appear in the MAGAZINE SECTION OF THE NEW YORK SUNDAY HERALD,
APRIL 18, which edition will also contain an interesting story of the remarkable progress in the protection of migratory birds by the federal government, as a result of the passage of the Weeks-McLean bill.

The first of a series of "Get Rich Quick" articles will also appear in this issue, entitled "The Grimmins," two well born, educated persons, who fleeced their intimate friends out of half a million dollars.

Several other interesting features
will tend to make this particular edition a cosmopolitan issue, appealing to every taste.

EBEN PLYMPTON DIES.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Eben
Plympton, well known actor, died early today of pneumonia. He was sixty years of age and made his debut at Sacramento, Cal. His last engagement was in "Twelfth Night."

In a second he had divested himself of his heavy military coat and thrown it over her shoulders, laughing meanwhile at her stormy abuse.

"Why—did you come?" he asked.
"Was it really for the pleasure of my society?"

"Perhaps—a little."

"Or was it that you know something?"

"I knew that you were in some danger tonight, Mr. Farquhar."

"Do you think that you can protect me?"

"As long as I am here—yes."

"It was fear for me, then—your fear?"

She made no answer. And suddenly he strode up to her and caught her hands and held them desperately.

"Miss Smith, I can understand your silence. But it would mean so much to me. Do you think I could misinterpret the truth? Do you suppose I could mistake pity—forgiveness—for anything unworthy, something that I have rightly lost? I have enough honor left me to understand. Were you—sent to warn me?"

Her face was turned away now.
When she spoke, after a moment's silence, her voice had deepened with
an unknown emotion.

"Mr. Farquhar," she said, "it was
a woman's loving fear for you which
brought me here."

"Thank you," he said simply.

He turned away from her. The momentary weakness was over. The
gaunt features under the military
cap were composed and resolute.

Close at hand was movement, the
crunching of the sandy soil under a
sharp quick tread, and instinctively
his hand slipped to his bayonet.

"I ask you to go now," he said in an imperative undertone. "You have done what you could. It was brave
and good of you, but to remain is sheer folly. I am practically unarmed. We aren't trusted with cartridges, and if anything happens—"

"I choose to be foolish," she interrupted coolly.

He made a movement of protest
and appeal, but it was already too
late. A shadow loosened itself from the darkness and came into the clearing. Farquhar's rifle sank to the ground. The moon was at her zenith.

In the brilliant yet deceptive light
the new comer loomed out gigantic,
supernatural.

"A sentry on duty?" he said ironically, looking from one to the other.

"A pleasant relaxation from discipline, my faith. Your number and regiment, sir?"

"4005, of the 1st, my Colonel."

"One of my own particular heroes. We have already met, I fancy.
Report yourself tomorrow to your
captain. For the present perhaps you will condescend to resume your duties. Mademoiselle, might I ask the reason of your unexpected presence
here?"

She looked up at him as though
she had seen him for the first time.
The small features were set in prim
reserve.

"I was admiring the view, Colonel Destinn," she said. "I find the out-
look on the desert very inspiring.
Have you any objection?"

"None. I am flattered that you should have considered one of my scalawags fit company for you. No
doubt he on his side will not count
a fortnight's detention too high a
price to pay for the honor, Mademoiselle, may I not have the pleasure
of bringing you back to your friends?"

He offered her his arm, his hard
mouth twisted with a contemptuous
amusement. She remained seated.

"Pardon me, Colonel Destinn, you
can not take me back to what does
not exist."

"You infer a friendless condition.
Permit me to suggest myself as a
poor substitute."

"I do not think I desire you as a friend, Colonel Destinn."

"You are a tyrant, Colonel Des-
tinn. I have heard that you kill men
to gratify your ambition."

He burst out laughing.

"A feminine conception of discipline! Mademoiselle, you are vastly entertaining. Yes, I have killed men.
No doubt I shall kill a few more on
our next little excursion south. It is a recognized custom in the Legion,
Mademoiselle, and one that has even
its advantages. For instance, it has enabled many a fine fellow destined

silence, her voice had deepened with
an unknown emotion.

"Mr. Farquhar," she said, "it was
a woman's loving fear for you which
brought me here."

"Thank you," he said simply.

He turned away from her. The momentary weakness was over. The
gaunt features under the military
cap were composed and resolute.

Close at hand was movement, the
crunching of the sandy soil under a
sharp quick tread, and instinctively
his hand slipped to his bayonet.

"I ask you to go now," he said in
an imperative undertone. "You have done what you could. It was brave
and good of you, but to remain is
sheer folly. I am practically unarmed. We aren't trusted with cartridges, and if anything happens—"

"I choose to be foolish," she interrupted coolly.

He made a movement of protest
and appeal, but it was already too
late. A shadow loosened itself from
the darkness and came into the
clearing. Farquhar's rifle sank to the ground. The moon was at her zenith.

In the brilliant yet deceptive light
the new comer loomed out gigantic,
supernatural.

"A sentry on duty?" he said ironi-
cally, looking from one to the other.

"A pleasant relaxation from discipline, my faith. Your number and
regiment, sir?"

"4005, of the 1st, my Colonel."

"One of my own particular heroes. We have already met, I fancy.
Report yourself tomorrow to your
captain. For the present perhaps you
will condescend to resume your duties. Mademoiselle, might I ask the
reason of your unexpected presence
here?"

She looked up at him as though
she had seen him for the first time.
The small features were set in prim
reserve.

"I was admiring the view, Colonel Destinn," she said. "I find the out-
look on the desert very inspiring.
Have you any objection?"

"None. I am flattered that you
should have considered one of my
scalawags fit company for you. No
doubt he on his side will not count
a fortnight's detention too high a
price to pay for the honor, Mademoi-
selle, may I not have the pleasure
of bringing you back to your
friends?"

He offered her his arm, his hard
mouth twisted with a contemptuous
amusement. She remained seated.

"Pardon me, Colonel Destinn, you
can not take me back to what does
not exist."

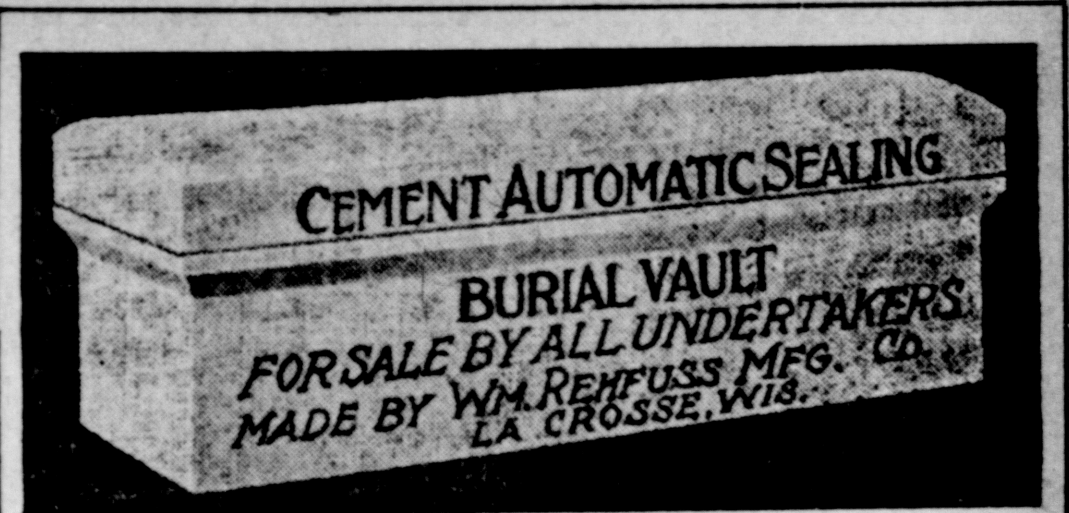

"You infer a friendless condition.
Permit me to suggest myself as a
poor substitute."

"I do not think I desire you as a
friend, Colonel Destinn."

"You are a tyrant, Colonel Des-
tinn. I have heard that you kill men
to gratify your ambition."

He burst out laughing.

"A feminine conception of discipline! Mademoiselle, you are vastly entertaining. Yes, I have killed men.
No doubt I shall kill a few more on
our next little excursion south. It is
a recognized custom in the Legion,
Mademoiselle, and one that has even
its advantages. For instance, it has
enabled many a fine fellow destined

These vaults are put in the ground just the same as a common rough box. The price is right.

for the gallows to depart this life in an odor of sanctity."

"If you had had a son, Colonel Destinn," she said quietly, "you might not be so satisfied with such a justification."

He did not answer. She waited for the cynical, overcourageous comment, but none came. Save for the regular tramp of the sentry backward and forward across the mouth of the palm-grove there was no sound. The silence became oppressive, weighted with some smothered, untraceable emotion. She looked up. To her amazement she saw that Colonel Destinn's features were convulsed
as though in physical agony.

"Colonel Destinn," she said uncertainly.

SCOUTS MAKE HIKE OF FOURTEEN MILES

North Side Boys Qualify as First Class Members by Endurance Test Saturday

Opening work in the first class scout program was taken Saturday morning and afternoon by thirteen members of Troop I, Boy Scouts. The boys, in parties of two or three, on Saturday took a fourteen mile hike, one of the hardest tests in scoutcraft. The boys, leaving the north side early Saturday morning, did not return until late in the afternoon. There are concessions made in the Boy Scouts in regard to work in a particular class among members of different ages.

Plans for a hike to be taken by the entire troop are being made by Scoutmaster Harry Spence, who will bring the plans before the troop at its meeting Friday night at the North Presbyterian church. The hike was proposed some time ago.

Much work is being planned for the scouts this summer. Many of the boys will be at work several days of each week on first class scout work, the beginning of which was made on Saturday. The plans for the summer include a camping trip to be taken on money earned by the boys by selling papers and magazines.

NO KNOWN CAUSE FOR EXPLOSION IN CUDAHY'S COOLER

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 12.—Mystery today surrounds an explosion which wrecked the seven story meat cooler of the Cudahy Packing plant, with a loss to the building and meat of $750,000.

Neither gas nor ammonia was used in the building. Nor was the woodwork or meat charred by the explosion which occurred last night a few minutes after Patrick Lyons, a fireman, and Oliver Bennett, temperature man, entered the building to read the thermometers. Both say when they set their lanterns down to turn on the electric light, there was a flash and a loud report which blew out the west wall. Both were blown about thirty feet.

TWO ARE KILLED IN STRIKE RIOTS

NEWARK, N. J., April 12.—With two men dead and three others seriously wounded in a riot resulting when striking fur finishers clashed with strikebreakers yesterday afternoon, the police were prepared today for further trouble. The shooting yesterday was precipitated when the strikebreakers went to the meeting place of the recently organized union and refused to leave.

INDICT VIOLATORS OF CATTLE BAN?

CHICAGO, April 12.—Indictments charging violation of the federal quarantine, in connection with the fight against the foot and mouth disease, against several prominent Illinois farmers were hinted at today by District Attorney Clyne. The district attorney admitted he had concluded his investigations of alleged violations of the foot and mouth quarantine order. He refused to say whether a prominent Elgin, Ill., man would be named in possible indictments.

Most Old People

Are Constipated

The wear of years impairs the action of the bowels. With advancing age people are disposed to restricted activity and exercise, which is responsible for the constipated condition of most old folks. The digestive organs are more sensitive to the demands made upon them and rebel more quickly.

A mild, effective remedy for constipation, and one that is especially suited to the needs of elderly people, women and children, is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that is sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 452 Washington St., Monticello, Ills.

A CHILD DOESN'T LAUGH AND PLAY IF CONSTIPATED

If peevish, feverish and sick give "California Syrup of Figs."

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50 cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

MILITARY BAND IS HIT AT MAJESTIC

Third Regiment Organization from Viroqua Presents a Pleasing Program

Crowded houses were delighted yesterday at the opening appearances of the famous Third Regiment band, the Viroqua militia organization which is booked for a four day engagement at the Majestic. The band's offerings were greatly enjoyed as a variation of the customary vaudeville diet.

The offerings for the day were widely varied, some of the selections being of a kind entirely new to La Crosse audiences. "The Arkansas Traveler," episode humoresque, may be noted as an excellent example of this. The audience and the band had a lot of fun with the selection, which is full of unexpected events. A descriptive "The Death of Custer," was also greatly enjoyed. It mingled martial and Indian music in a quaintly effective way, closing with a stirring, full-toned rendition of "Nearer My God to Thee" which roused great enthusiasm.

The program yesterday included the "Semiramis" overture of Kosinski, "The Arkansas Traveler" and the "Death of Custer." In the afternoon a humorous descriptive "A Bull in a China Shop," was well received. The latter selection was played in darkness for a great part, the current falling in the lights just as the piece got into full swing.

The thirty-eight pieces of the band, under the leadership of Chief Musician O. G. Brown, acquitted themselves in very creditable fashion. The band is well balanced and sure of itself, and Mr. Brown's interpretations leave very little to be desired.

Today's program will feature von Suppe's "Pique Dame" overture, "Hungarian Fantasia" by Th. M. Tozani, and a grand fantasia "Home Sweet Home the World Over."

Two humorous vaudeville acts, Arthur Stone and Marion Hayes in "Green Goods," and Duncan and Holt, blackface comedians, follow the militiamen.

LIBRARIAN OF ORCHESTRA IMPORTANT COG IN MACHINE

Adenour M. Hoskins Has Collection of Scores Worth $15,000 to Care for and Has Never Lost a Sheet

Behind the scenes of every profession and business is a region quite as interesting as that pertaining to the drama. In the dramatic world scene shifters, property men and stage directors are never seen; yet unless their duties are well and faithfully performed the play is a failure.

Behind the scenes of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, which is to appear here in the normal school music festival, is a modest man, who performs his arduous and necessary task absolutely unknown to the audience. This is Adenour M. Hoskins, librarian, who has full charge of the orchestra's collection of scores which are valued at something like $15,000. Before every concert Mr. Hoskins is responsible for the placing, in proper order, upon every musician's desk about 500 separate pieces of music, which he also must collect and return to their proper places at the close of the concert. While the orchestra is on tour he has the added responsibility of packing and unpacking the music and seeing that the music trunk is ready for the baggage man in time to have it put on board the orchestra's special train before it leaves for the next town. During his eight years as librarian Mr. Hoskins has never lost one single sheet.

Health Commissioner Furstman and Member of the Dairy Commission Testify Against Him

Oscar Kramer, dairyman and milk dealer, is charged with maintaining unclean stables where his milk cows are kept and with selling unsanitary milk. He was arraigned in county court this afternoon. The charges are preferred by City Health Commissioner J. M. Furstman, who was assisted in a recent investigation of some of the county dairy farms by S. J. Dufner, member of the state dairy and food inspection commission.

The jury demanded by Kramer consists of H. J. Herken, S. Auberger, J. S. Arenz, H. J. Sturz, Edwin S. Dittman, C. A. Hoeschler and Edward Conway.

Attorney W. F. Wolfe is defending Kramer. Kramer maintains that he never was warned by Dr. Furstman that his barns were unclean.

IMPRESSIVE SCENES MARK DEDICATION

congratulating Father Till and the people of St. Wenceslaus congregation.

The church, he said, is a shrine of grace and revelation. The truths proclaimed by the Master and carried by the apostles to the ends of the earth are bearing precious fruit in every generation and would be uttered yet again in that church, while there also would be dispensed the grace that has lifted mankind from pagan superstition and corruption.

After showing how every Catholic church edifice epitomizes the four marks of unity, catholicity, holiness and apostolicity, Fr. Condon showed how the history of the church could be traced in the various places of worship of their church during the Christian era.

Civilization, he said, grew around the church and monastery, and the church and monastery grew around Jesus Christ. As civilization was the work of the church, so she is necessary to its preservation and yet higher progress.

"May the light and grace of the church spread farther and farther and dispel whatever remains of the old pagan darkness, either in Christendom itself or in the outer heathendom."

Bishop Reads First Sermon

The morning service was concluded by a sermon by Bishop Schwabach, after the benediction and the blessed sacrament had been administered. He spoke in glowing terms of the work of the church and of its relation to the community.

At the afternoon social session at the school house, Bishop Koudelka told in glowing terms of his visit to Europe which was terminated abruptly by the outbreak of the war. He told graphically of his harrowing experiences in passing customs officials and others who guarded every outlet of the country.

St. Louis Bohemian Editor Here

Hynek Dostal, editor of the Bohemian paper, Hlas, St. Louis, impressed on the audience the need of their retaining the Bohemian language through education of the young and interest in doings of the Fatherland. Dinner and supper were served at the school house.

Dedication services were concluded this morning with requiem mass at 8 o'clock, conducted by Rev. F. X. Lepsa of De Soto, who was born and raised in La Crosse. Absolution was said by Bishop Koudelka, followed by the blessing of the stations by Bishop Koudelka, assisted by all the priests. Bishop Koudelka left today for his home in Superior.

New Church Costs $38,000

Distinctive among the church edifices of the city is the new church, built on the Renaissance type of architecture used in the missions of California. The cost including furnishings, is between $37,000 and $38,000.

The church is 126 feet in length and is 52½ feet in width. It is built on the straight nave design. The edifice is of pressed, cream-colored brick with Bedford stone trimmings and a roof of red tile. A facade adorns the front of the building, topped by a side tower fourteen feet square and 84 feet high. The triple entrance at the front is built in Bedford limestone with an art glass window above. In a niche above the window will be placed a statue of St. Wenceslaus, patron saint of the congregation.

Has Copper Topped Tower

The tower, which is to the right of the entrance, is built of brick with limestone trimmings. Its cupola is of copper, supporting a combined cross and monstrance, worked in copper. A plain cross of copper is on the main gable of the church. The tower is of plastered design, having one side entrance and two rear entrances, opening from the sides of the building to the sacristies. Confessionals are placed on either side beneath semicircular apses, above which rose windows appear in the main structure.

On the interior, the vestibule, nave, sacristies and chancel are all on the level of the main entrance. The ceiling of the vestibule, which is forty feet wide, is made up of inverted bowls. At one end is a pieta for private devotions and at the other end a stairway leads into the balcony. The floor of the vestibule is in ceramic tile.

Nave Finished in Stucco

The nave, which is plastered, is characterized by pilasters rising to the arched ceiling, which is also plastered. The pilasters and the arches on the ceiling are in stucco. A double arches at the south end of the nave, four pilasters rising from the floor, the center two marking the

A WINTER TONIC

Why is it that some people keep well all winter while others, less exposed to cold and damp, suffer with colds, grip, pleurisy, pneumonia and all the ills of the season?

Thin blood and debility are the causes of much sickness in winter. When the blood is thin and there is oxygen starvation in the tissues of the body, poisons are retained that should be eliminated and there is a lowered resistance to disease.

Rheumatism disappears when the blood is built up and does not return if the blood is kept rich.

The after-effects of grip are never cured until the blood is built up. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich the blood and enable it to carry more oxygen, to nourish the starved tissues in debility, to soothe the inflamed membranes in rheumatism, to quiet the nerves in neuralgia and sciatica and to expel the lingering germs after the fever and influenza of grip have passed. All winter Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be in every house, ready for use. You can get them now at the nearest drug store.

The third edition of the popular little book "Building Up the Blood" has just been published. Write today to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for a free copy.

beginning of the sanctuary. Between each pair of pilasters are the side alters. The balcony at the other end of the nave is 42 feet wide and 16 feet in depth. In the balcony is the pipe organ.

The sanctuary, separated from the nave by a wooden rail, is in stucco work, opening into sacristies on either side, containing lockers.

A round, rose window sheds light on the altar from the south end of the church. The entire church is finished in oak. The floors are of wood.

Memorial Windows Donated

Memorial windows were donated by Bishops Schwabach and Koudelka and Mr. and Mrs. L. Pavlicek of St. Paul.

La Crosse donors were Joseph J. and Wenzel Frisch, A. A. Fessler, Ambrose Hanus, Anton and Joseph Jirise, J. and J. Mertlik, John Nekola, and Frank Neuwirt, Vac Vseticka, Frank Dubina, Joseph and Anna Pavlek, Mrs. Kate Jirka, John Benes and John Hrdlicka.

Donors of stations of the cross were Mrs. Mary Martlik, Frank Stupka and Genevieve Simon, Frank Tomisek, Mrs. Rose Heppelitz, Joseph Tomisek, George Cerny, John Satek and Frank Matuska, Jacob Pouzar and Frank Novacek, Thomas and Adolph Tuma, Stephen Bicha and Charles Duda, Frank and Rudolph Smolek, Mrs. Elizabeth Soukup and Vac Lepsa and family.

terminated, muddy bull dogs whom I watched.

I saw nothing which struck home more forcefully. I never saw a more business-like lot. They have re-systematized their lives. At war they go to the front trenches like they used to go to work. While there, they work industriously, shooting with the same painstaking care a master mechanic observes at his lathe.

"The only trouble we have with our men comes on warm, sunny days," an officer told me. "They want to know why they can't attack, since all winter they have been promised action when the spring sunshine comes."

Both officers and men speak of peace as a long way off, unless unexpected developments bring a sudden end to hostilities.

From what I saw on this and previous visits, I am able to state that the French army was never in finer condition, physically and morally. I saw less evidence of typhoid and other diseases than one sees in bodies of men of the same size in times of peace.

the escapes were too close for comfort.

"Since leaving New York 255 days ago, we have touched at no port. We were forced to eat rice to live and that is responsible for the sixty-six cases of illness aboard. The men are suffering from beri-beri."

"Take Food From Prize"

"After awhile though we captured and sank a French steamer and got provisions and stores which lasted us a long time. Among them were 10,000 bags of coffee."

No official cognizance had yet been taken of reports that the German vessel cleared irregularly when it left New York. Thierfeldt admitted the ship cleared for Bremen and did not go there, but explained that its orders were changed by wireless.

In Need of Water

Customs officials permitted the converted cruiser to take on fresh vegetables, meat, 200 gallons of water, necessities for relief of the beri-beri sufferers on board and fifty tons of coal.

The crew's water had been limited for ten days to a decidedly brackish supply from the condensers and there was a rush for the tanks to-day as soon as the work of refilling began.

The landing of the sixty-one prisoners was looked for before night-fall. It was expected the British consul would take charge of them.

Naval constructors asserted the vessel needed more repairs of its hull than did even the Prinz Eitel Friedrich, though the machinery was in better condition.

Its bottom, they said, was thickly covered with barnacles, its port side was damaged from just after the pilot house to the first class saloon entrance, its decks were torn up inside the cabins, where coal was poured into bunkers, several of its plates were sprung below the water line, it had taken in considerable water and it showed a seventeen degree list to port.

MILLIONAIRES ARE ACCUSED OF BIG IRRIGATION FRAUD

Colorado and Chicago Capitalists Indicted for Alleged Misuse of Mails

CHICAGO, April 12.—Eight indictments alleging frauds through sale of millions of dollars worth of bonds in an irrigation project, it was announced today, were secretly returned last week against promoters of the project.

The following were indicted on two counts charging conspiracy to violate the postal laws and perpetration of fraud through the mails:

Charles F. Tew, lawyer and politician of Greeley, Col.; William S. Cliff, millionaire capitalist of Denver; Samuel H. Shields, millionaire capitalist of Denver.

The following were indicted on charges of violation of the postal laws:

William Farson of Farson & Company, Chicago; John Farson, New York, representative of Farson & Company; George S. Osborne, formerly of Chicago, now of Cheyenne, Wyo.; Roy A. H. Thompson of Chicago; Harry B. Parrott, of Chicago.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody can Tell when you Darken Gray, Faded Hair with Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downy drugist says everybody uses Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.

FRENCH DESIST FROM ATTACKS IN REGION OF RIVERS

Battle of Meuse and Moselle Halted for the Present Paris Admits

PARIS, April 12.—The French offensive in the region between the Meuse and Moselle has been halted temporarily, according to dispatches received here today. Pending a redistribution of the French forces and the arrival of more reinforcements there has been a complete lull in activities along the northern side of the German wedge.

Some fighting is going on in Le Pretre forest, northwest of Pont-a-Mousson. The official communique from the war office this afternoon announced the defeat of two German counter attacks on the western fringe, where the French hold a chain of strong blockhouses.

BEST TIME TO GAIN NEW FLESH

Those Who are Thin and Pale Should Take Father John's Medicine Now.

Experts agree that this is the best season of the year to build up strength and weight that has been lost during the winter. Father John's Medicine is best for this purpose because it is made of pure and wholesome food elements which strengthen and build up those who are weak and run down. No alcohol or dangerous drugs.

OLD ZEISLER HOME GETS LONG RIDE WITH HOUSEMOVERS

Historic North Third Street Mansion to Be Converted Into Apartment Building

The former George Zeisler residence, which stood for thirty-one years next to the old Zeisler brewery in North Third street, is today taking a journey of sixteen blocks through the principal streets of La Crosse. The building is being moved to the southeast corner of Fifteenth and Vine streets, where it will be remodeled into a flat building.

Mr. Zeisler built the residence when he was married. He made his home in the structure following one of the long to be remembered weddings of old La Crosse.

The house is an example of the lasting construction of house builders thirty years ago. It was not in the least damaged by the jolting it received in being slowly rolled over the rough streets. Otto Granke, housemover, and a gang of workmen are moving the house.

The building was purchased by F. W. Pittman and D. W. MacWillie and will be converted into flats, after being remodeled. It was originally brick veneered but the brick was removed.

YOUNG HOPPE HERE TO SHOW BILLIARD FANS FANCY SHOTS

Frank Hoppe, pocket billiardist, brother of Willie Hoppe, world's champion billiardist, will play a 125 point game of pocket billiards at the Lotus parlors tonight. After the game, he will demonstrate fancy shots as played by his brother. He will also play tomorrow night.

Practice doesn't always make perfect, especially with many would-be musicians.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION TO COUNTY COURT.

State of Wisconsin, County Court, La Crosse County, ss.—In Probate, Notice is hereby given that at a regular term of the County Court, to be held in and for said County, at the Court House, in the City of La Crosse, in said County, on the first Tuesday, being the fourth day of May, A. D. 1915, at 10 o'clock A. M., the following matter will be heard and considered, namely:

The application of Frederick Boltermann, administrator of the estate of Annie C. Yanken, late of the City of La Crosse, in said County of La Crosse, deceased, for the adjustment, settlement and allowance of his final account as such administrator and for the assignment of the residue of the estate of said deceased to such persons as are entitled to the same. Dated April 12, 1915.

By order of the Court,
JOHN BRINDLEY,
County Judge.

LOSS OF APPETITE

Most Successfully Treated by Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla

Loss of appetite is accompanied by loss of vitality, which is serious. It is common in the spring because at this time the blood is impure and impoverished and fails to give the digestive organs what is absolutely necessary for the proper performance of their functions.

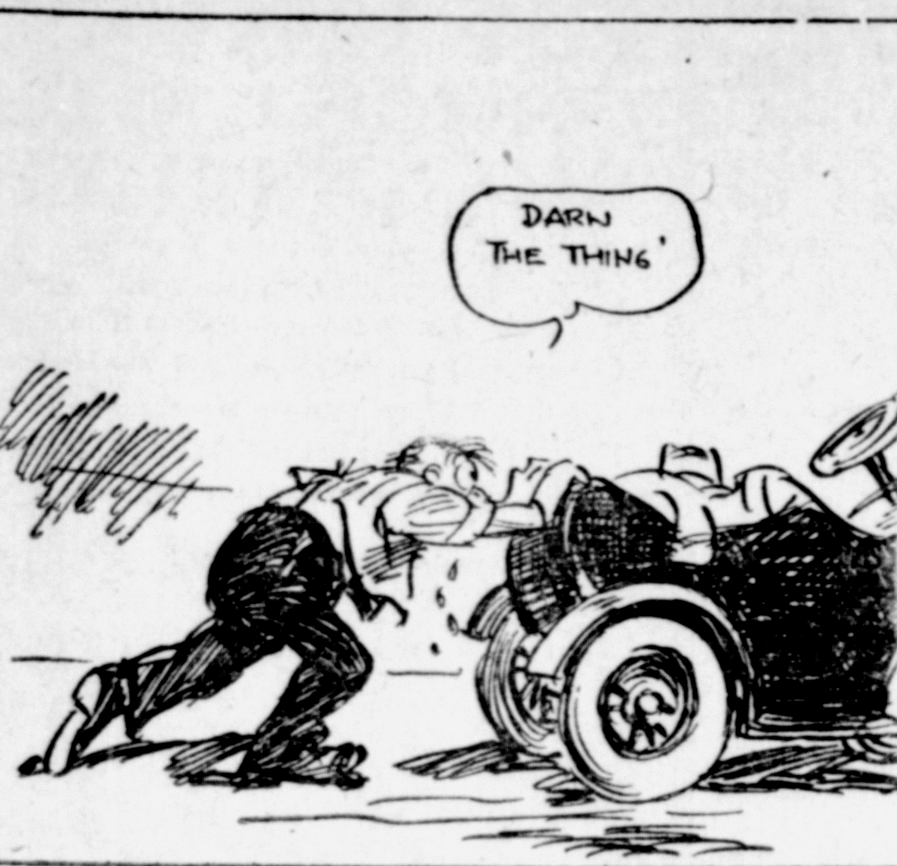

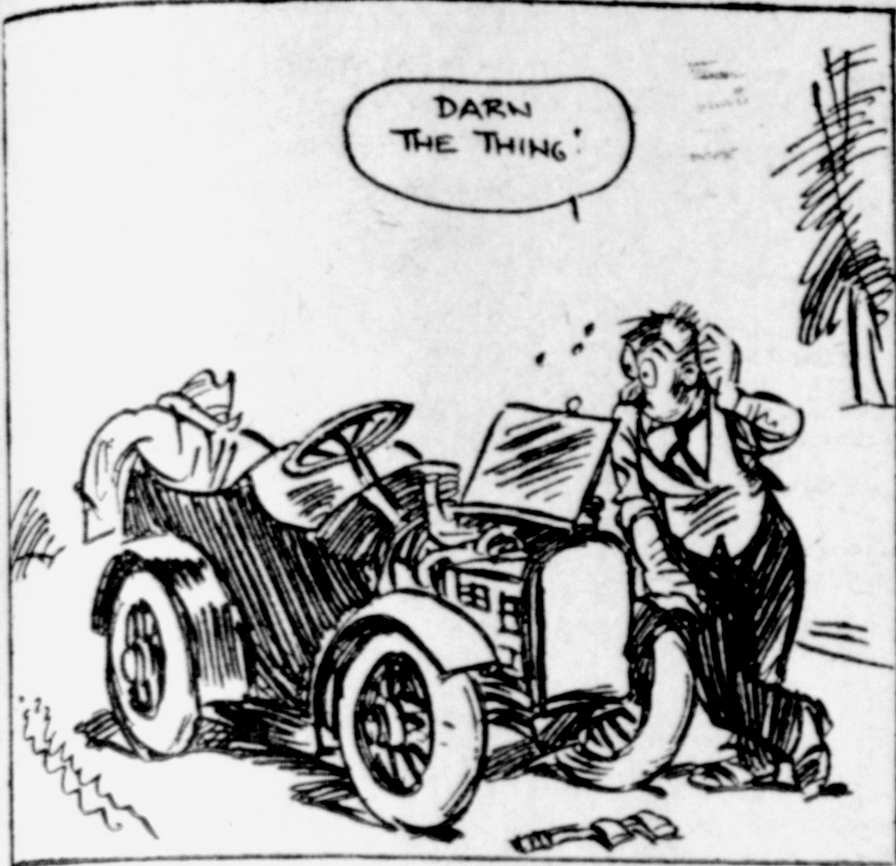

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the old reliable all-the-year-round medicine, is especially useful in the spring. Get it from your druggist today. By purifying and enriching the blood and giving vitality, vigor and tone, it is wonderfully successful in the treatment of loss of appetite and the other ailments prevalent at this time. It is not simply a spring medicine—it is much more than that—but it is the best spring medicine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the rich red blood the digestive organs need.

Foreign Markets

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, April 12.—The stock market opened tamely, in striking contrast to the feverish activity of the closing days of last week. Prices shaded off considerably and there was apparently considerable profit taking. Steel opened at 56 and dropped to 55 1/2. 11 a. m.—Further realizing sales were in evidence toward the close of the first hour, but some issues not previously prominent on the bull side became strong, reaching new high figures.

Noon.—There was further reaction during the second hour, but stocks were well taken at the decline and the market was comparatively quiet and steady at midday.

ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FOOD

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid is Cause of Indigestion

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion is nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation, then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash, or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast while it is effervescent, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the excess acid, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results. For sale by Chas. Beyschlag, druggist, 503 Main street.

ONE WAY TO REDUCE THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

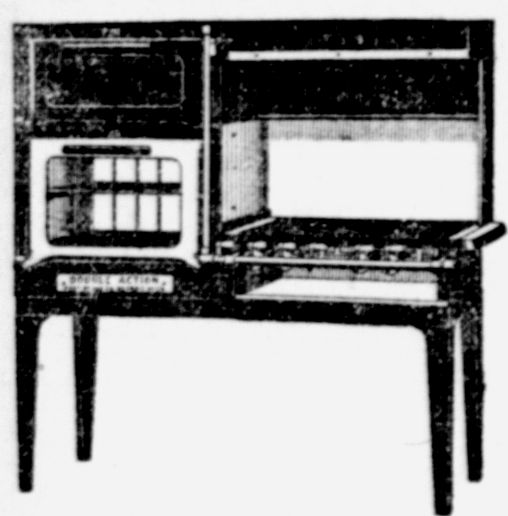

Will Be Demonstrated at Our Store

This Week, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday

If your gas range uses more than 10 feet of gas to bake your batch of bread it is too much.

You wouldn't think of giving your grocer 20 cents for a certain brand of bread if you could get the same bread elsewhere at half the price.

Then why should you buy a gas range that would require about twice as much gas to bake your bread as BEST'S DOUBLE ACTION GAS RANGE?

BROILER PAN

This never catch on fire broiling pan is another exclusive feature of the Double Action. The pan is hopper shape so that the grease runs to the center, drops down through an opening into a small pan and cannot catch fire, or burn.

Our demonstrator will bake for you bread, pies, biscuits etc., and will convince you of the absolute saving of gas effected by the use of Best's Double Action Gas Range. The Double Action is the only gas range built that uses the heat in the oven twice and is ventilated through the bottom plate of the oven, thus requiring only two rows of fire. It has the only broiling pan that will never catch on fire. Both oven and broiler fires are in plain view when the doors are closed. The range is smooth and rust proof and can be easily kept clean and sanitary with a damp cloth. The body is enameled outside and inside, and the oven and broiler lining are made of fused aluminum metal.

There are many other important features embodied in this range which will appeal to you. We invite you to come in and let us explain the special advantages of our Double Action Gas Ranges.

"Whys" of Moves in European War

(BY J. W. T. MASON)

NEW YORK, April 12.—Reports that Austria has secured Germany's consent to sue for a separate peace, are unquestionably untrue. All Germany's interests are bound up with keeping Austria fighting by her side and if Austria surrenders to the allies, it will be without authorization from Berlin.

Austria probably has two million men in the field, nearly all of them facing the Russians. If they were withdrawn, it is highly improbable that even Von Hindenburg's genius could keep the solidified Russian army from penetrating far into German territory. If Austria feels herself becoming exhausted and if the time comes when she can continue the war for only a little longer, the most probable result will be not a separate peace, but a general peace. The Teutonic allies will try to conceal the plight of the weaker member and will together try for the best terms obtainable.

There is nothing in the present military situation to suggest that Austria has been overwhelmed and must lay down her arms. The Russians are proceeding very slowly in their Carpathian campaign and Hungary is still free from invasion. A deadlock might well come in the Carpathians as it has come in Poland, France and Belgium. This, in fact, is the more probable, though not, of course, the certain outcome.

The Italian situation cannot of itself compel Austria to sue for a separate peace, unless, indeed, Italy's statements are committing the blunder of trying to secure Trieste and the Adriatic coast, making the dual monarchy practically an inland state. Indications, however, are presenting more and more to the exercise of moderating influences by the king of Italy, and his insistence that the Italians be content with obtaining the Trentino from Austria.

There are reasons to believe, although they are not conclusive, that Emperor Franz Josef has agreed to cede the Trentino. If this be true, the probable acceptance of offer by Austria will remove the necessity for allies in order to protect her seaboard territory from Italian designs. Even if the negotiations at Rome were to be unfavorable to the present moment, Austria would not serve German interests by discussing peace with the allies. There is always hope that Italy will be reasonable, and there is no reason why Austria cannot make peace with her other enemies to as good purpose, after Italy declares war, as before.

EVANS AND SOLIE ARE VICTORS ON HANDBALL COURT

Local Stars Defeat Men from Eau Claire Saturday Night in Three Games at the Association

PIEPER'S VOLLEYBALLERS LOSE

Eau Claire Men Repeat the Beating Administered Time Ago; Visitors Take Three Games

Fifty-fifty was the result of the athletic program at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday in which handball and volleyball teams of the local association met teams from the Eau Claire Y. M. C. A. Evans and Solie, local champions, took three games at handball from E. E. Fleming and Oscar Slagsvol. A local volleyball team, however, suffered defeat in three games at the hands of a picked team from the northern town.

Arthur Evans and Theodore Solie, in winning from the northerners, established themselves as the leading four walled court men in this section of the state. They had little difficulty in winning, the scores being 21-10, 21-14 and 21-10, although at times the snappy work of Fleming and Slagsvol threatened to turn the tables. The Eau Claire men appeared at a disadvantage at playing on a strange court, which is considerably larger than the home court. They were confused several times on court rules.

The Eau Claire team ran up their largest score in the second game, when a temporary slump by Evans gave them a momentary advantage. The locals, however, came back. They were headed but twice during the series.

Evans Uses Smashes

The lightning-like smashes of Evans to the corners and the quick wrist returns of the Eau Claire men featured the match. On returns from the rear wall, when it appeared impossible to shoot the ball, the visitors showed the local men a trick. A short snap of the wrist time and again sent the ball to the front wall, many times for points.

Evans and Solie played together well. In series of volleying, enlivened by spectacular plays, the La Crosse men in a majority of cases gained the point. Solie played a strong back court game with Evans doing the work at the front wall.

Fleming was easily the star of the Eau Claire team. He scored 28 of the 34 points made by the visitors. Points scored: Evans, 32; Solie, 31; Fleming, 28; Slagsvol, 6.

On the volleyball court, La Crosse men fared poorly. Scores of 21-9, 21-12 and 21-8 were run up by the Eau Claire team, Pieper's team having little chance against the onslaught of the northerners. The match was the second played by the two teams this year, both being won by Eau Claire. The La Crosse team was composed of A. J. Roberge, C. R. Pieper, J. R. Moore, Bruce Stickle, H. J. Ruggles and F. A. Hankerson. The visiting Eau Claire players were Andrew Linton, Hale, Rathbun, Charles Hale, Kirscher, Bigler, Bamberger and Rounds.

CLEVELAND, O.—The Indians had their first spring workout on "home ground" today with few charley-horses to worry them. They were defeated five to three, by the Columbus Senators yesterday. Joe Jackson is in ban shape.

THREE LA CROSSE TEAMS HAVE THEIR WORKOUT SUNDAY

Athletes, Nelsons and Trainmen Take Their First Practices of the Season

Sore arms, lame backs and numerous charley horses are in La Crosse today as the result of the first baseball practice of the year taken by La Crosse teams held yesterday. Contrary to expectations, the day dawned dark and dreary, not the kind of a day welcomed by athletes wishing to loosen up joints stiffened by months of inactivity. The work in most cases was light.

At normal field, the Athletes, under Manager Bill Krause cavorted for several hours yesterday afternoon. Baiting practice, field work and circling of the bases was the work mapped out for the day. Results were satisfactory to Krause. The team will be out again next Sunday. At Copeland park, the Nelsons and Trainmen "chopped" for a "scrub" game. The score at the end of two innings was 5 to 4 in favor of one or the other of the teams. Just which one, no one seems to know. The work served in a measure to inaugurate the spirit of the season into several dozen rooters who gathered to see the tilt.

ROOKIES AND REGULARS

CHICAGO.—The Cubs breezed back to the home grounds today, winding up their exhibition schedule with a 11 to 7 victory over Memphis yesterday. They were scheduled to play Stagg's Maroon squad this afternoon, but weather conditions looked bad before noon.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo.—Reb Russell and Joe Jones were Rowland's early pitching selections for the last exhibition game of the season here. Tonight the Sox hit the trail for St. Louis where they will open against the Browns Wednesday. The Sox won yesterday, 10 to 0.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—With a victory apiece to their credit, "Wild Bill" Donovan's Yanks and the Brooklyn Robins clashed today in the last of the local three game series.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—Flushed with their initial victory over the Buffeds, Ward's Tiptops attempted to duplicate the feat today in the second game of the Federal league season. Early indications presaged a big crowd.

NEW YORK.—While the main section remained in Washington to clash with the American leaguers, the advance guard, led by Christy Mathewson, arrived this morning and took a final workout at the Polo grounds.

KONETCHY STARTS OUT WITH A RUSH

GERMAN RIVERS RISE

BERLIN, via Wireless to Sayville, April 12.—The rivers Rhine, Moselle and Neckar and their tributaries are rising rapidly in the region about the city of Mainz and the territory is threatened by floods, according to dispatches received here today.

Advertising in Dentistry

Much has been said and no doubt will continue to be said concerning "advertising" in the professions. Some of the comments being bitter criticisms of competing brothers, others by people benefited or victimized by advertising Doctors or other advertising professional men. Yes, and I might as well say so, sometimes by advertising Dentists.

In times past it was very easy for Fakery to slip their dope into the advertising mediums and get innocent people into their dens and graft them, because there was no law to compel them to tell the truth in their ads., provided they did not misrepresent their goods in their places of business. But they often did this as the victim seldom had the necessary means of proving "Intent to Defraud."

Today conditions are entirely different in several respects. First, the laws of the state protect the public by enforcing a very stringent statute on Misleading Advertising which holds a newspaper responsible for printing fraudulent Advertising, as well as the party authorizing the same.

Again, the new and young generation of Advertising Dentists can see the mistakes and results of such, made by the preceding generation of the Fraternity, and profit by them. There is now a movement on foot which aims to raise the standard of work of Advertisers which will eventually wipe all this "Advertising without virtue" out of existence.

I might add that it has always been my policy to state very plainly what I had to deliver and then to be very careful to do my very best to make every patient a satisfied one and a walking Advertisement. Thousands of people will verify this statement.

KAISER PREPARES SINGER GIFT

BERLIN, via Wireless to Sayville, April 12.—Emperor William's present to the Brooklyn singing festival of the Northeastern Singing Societies of America, has been completed, it was announced today. To avoid possible capture by British warships, an imitation will be forwarded to Brooklyn. The original will be sent after the war.

The emperor's gift is a large silver and gold plated shield of honor, after models drawn by Prof. Otto Rohloff.

SPOTLIGHTS

LA CROSSE PLAYERS

"Alias Jimmy Valentine" was the offering of the La Crosse Theater Players on the opening of their second weeks' engagement at the La Crosse theater. Two capacity houses attended the performances yesterday. Cliff Hastings as Jimmy was immense. Mr. Hastings gave a finished performance of the extremely difficult part, and with the assistance of Miss Eleanor Foster as "Rose Lane," and the balance of the La Crosse Theater Players "Alias Jimmy Valentine" was a popular offering.

AGNES HERON MILLER

Agnes Heron Miller, who is the present Ethel in "Peg O' My Heart," which will occupy the boards at the La Crosse Theater tomorrow night, is a member of a stage family that goes back over two generations. The strain of theatrical blood coursing through her veins suggests that artistic traits are undoubtedly transmitted from father and mother to son and daughter.

Miss Miller's grandmother, was the famous Matilda Heron, noted in her day as the greatest of all Camille. She made the English adaptation of this work, which is still accepted today as the standard version. Bijou Heron, daughter of Matilda Heron, and mother of Agnes Heron Miller, was in her day a famous beauty and actress, who also played in Camille, but who was perhaps better known for her work in "Hazel Kirke" in which she starred for a number of years. Henry Miller, the father of Agnes, an actor of undoubted ability, is still prominent on the stage.

Another example of great self-restraint is the cold victim who refrains from telling where he caught it.

CREAM FOR CATARRH OPENS UP NOSTRILS

Tells How To Get Quick Relief from Head-Colds. It's Splendid!

In one minute your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffling, blowing, headache, dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh will be gone.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly. It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed-up with a cold or nasty catarrh—Relief comes so quickly.
